April Graduate Student Spotlight

April 2023 Graduate Student Spotlight: Patrick Crowe

"The best part of teaching is always when students reflect on their experiences and discuss how you were able to help them see parts of the sports world they had not seen or considered before." says Patrick Crowe, a Kinesiology, Recreation, and Sport Studies doctoral student. Click the button to read about Crowe's teaching journey and his educational background at UT.

Innovative Teaching & Learning Conference Recap

This year we hosted our fourth Innovative Teaching and Learning Conference on Thursday, March 29th, 2023. The conference was held virtually. Here are some of the highlights:

- 416 individuals attended throughout the day
- 71 institutions were represented
- 44 sessions were offered

The theme of this year's conference, Reframing Postsecondary Education Through Innovative Teaching and Learning, served as the catalyst for inviting professor, researcher, and author Dr. Peter Felten as our keynote speaker for our morning and afternoon plenary sessions.

Thank you for supporting this year's conference, especially those who submitted and reviewed proposals, presented their work, and attended sessions. The success of our conference is all due to you. We hope to see you next year!

TLI's NEW Curriculum Development Guide

At TLI, we believe that intentional, systematic curriculum development, grounded in evidence-based teaching practices, can create a learner-centered experience where all students have the opportunity to thrive. To assist instructors, colleges, and departments in this endeavor as the summer months approach, we have created a Curriculum Development Guide. Full of downloadable roadmaps, resources, and templates, this interactive guide provides you with everything you need to engage in the curriculum development process from beginning to end.
