Review our 2023 Annual Report

TLI had a very successful 2022-23 academic year, but we could not have done that without you.

In our most recent Annual Report we illustrate the opportunities implemented to help facilitate instructional excellence and support those we serve in achieving their work-life goals.
TLI is offering 2 workshop series this semester as well as 2 new learning communities! For more information, visit our Fall 2023 Workshops and Programs webpage.

CIRTL F.U.E.L

About this seminar: Are you a graduate student or postdoctoral fellow interested in enhancing your teaching? Join us for the “Facilitating Undergraduate Evidence-Based Learning” (F.U.E.L.) professional development seminar in the Fall 2023 semester.

This fall, CIRTL F.U.E.L. will be offered in two ways:

1. Online using Canvas
2. In person on the UT campus

For more information on meeting times, and modules covered, Visit our CIRTL F.U.E.L Page online!

About this Learning Community: Teaching & Learning Innovation will be hosting a learning community for the 2023-2024 academic year that is focused on inclusive teaching practices. We will be reading about and discussing the following topics during our monthly meetings: Instructor positionality and bias, trauma-informed teaching, culture of caring, student identity, storytelling as a way of teaching, and setting the tone for an inclusive classroom.

HIGHLIGHTS FROM OUR SUMMER PROGRAMS

A Summer of CIRTL and SOTL
Although campus might have been quiet in these warmer months, don't be fooled into thinking nothing was going on here on Rocky Top!

From May through June, TLI hosted its 2023 Scholarship of Teaching & Learning (SoTL) Funding Support Program, where 7 faculty members completed the experience across 3 different tracks. The SoTL funding support program aided these participants in beginning or continuing their research around their teaching practices.

Additionally, we also led our Summer CIRTL F.U.E.L. experience for graduate and professional students, as well as post-docs. A total of 50 students participated in this program and gained more knowledge on how enhance their teaching and learning abilities.
Thank you to all those who participated in our offerings over this summer! We hope these programs have provided you with some new tools to add to your teaching kit this semester. We also hope to see you again this fall at our workshops and learning communities as we continue to ensure a path to success for every faculty member at UT.
